Student President Offers Greetings

Alumni

It seems appropriate to greet you with a traditional language of the "Y". Judging from the letters that I have received from some of you, you haven't lost your feelings for the traditions which have stood so long.

This year is especially important in the history of the B.Y.U. Those of us who have been here can see the great change that is taking place in the last few years. Among the changes has been the renewed interest of our alumni in the growth of the school.

We take great pleasure in "Remembering When" you ran the show. A special welcome to all of you.

"To Start a Romance" will offer a variety of talent in the Fieldhouse Frolics Friday at 8 p.m. in the Smith Fieldhouse. The theme of the show, an original musical comedy written and directed by Larry Peterson, Lethbridge, Alta., Canada, revolves around the reuniting of some BYU alumni after 15 years.

MODERN INTERPRETATIVE dancing with choreography by Shirlene Oswald, Idaho Falls, will highlight the show.

Included in the cast are Joan Schoenfeld, Parma, Ohio; Jim Peterson, Provo; Don Crandall, Mesa, Ariz.; Gerald Davis, Idaho Falls, Ida.; Doug Evans, Calgary, Alta., Canada; and Diane Bell, Los Angeles, Calif.

Finalists winning in the vocal small ensemble competition will perform numbers at the Fieldhouse Frolics.

The Y's Men will furnish music for the street dance. Dress is casual, pedal pushers for women, according to Don Van Noy, chairman of the Saturday morning homecoming activities.

A pep rally in the street will immediately follow the dance at 8:45 a.m. to promote high spirits for the BYU-New Mexico game at 1:30 p.m.

Antique automobiles, 45 floats and 15 high school bands will parade at 9:30 a.m. Saturday, down University Ave. and Center St., according to Dick Smart, parade chairman.

THE DOOR IS OPEN

This weekend, you graduates of Brigham Young University, is the time when you may come back to the campus and gaze with awe at the amazing growth since your departure.

You look to see the youthful appearance of the students—far more youthful than you ever looked when you were going to school.

You look around you and see a few professors you knew way back when, but most of them are new—and there are several times as many as when you were going to school.

You listen to the two-year-old carillon bells chime the hours away and think of the barely-audible ringing of the chimes in the Smith Building, or the sharp clang of the old Y Bell on nights when victory came to our teams, that were familiar to you when you were going to school.

Yes, you who have graduated, there are many changes in our campus since your heyday.

Several important, even vital, characteristics are the same, though.

BYU has managed, even through the rapid expansion of the past few years, to retain that atmosphere which makes you feel at home on campus.

The smiles which light the faces of its students and the cheery greetings you receive when you say "Hi" are qualities which are unique at BYU.

Even the old Y Bell still rings in the event BYU's athletic teams are victorious.

You, graduates, are the ones who fostered these traditions and who made them the integral part of BYU they are today.

It is hoped that your observations this weekend reassure you that the generation of students who are here now are worthy custodians of these traditions.

It is the sincere hope of the present generation that they might keep these traditions so that when they return to the campus as graduates—even as you are doing this weekend—they might feel a bit of pride in the small part they played in nourishing and strengthening our traditions—just as it is hoped you feel some stirrings of pride at your role in the growth and development of this university.

The graduate of tomorrow welcomes you home for awhile and hopes your stay will be a pleasant one.

He who will join your alumni ranks shortly is happy to act as your host for this weekend, for it is you who have lain the bricks in the gigantic construction job over the past three-quarters of a century which have made this university into an institution of which he can be justifiably proud.

Welcome home, BYU graduates, our house is your house.

THE QUARTER-HUNDRED

Brigham Young University's 1956 Homecoming theme "Remember When..." honors 25 professors emeriti of the school.

These 25 men and women represent several centuries of service to the building and development of the spiritual, physical and academic growth of our university.

Theirs was an enviable lot. They were modern day pioneers who cut the pattern in helping BYU attain today's status.

Although the job of development is not completed, these men and women have made easier today's task by marking a trail and by doing their best to guarantee that trail was followed.

Honors tendered by humans are fleeting things, at best, but the accomplishments—present, past and future—of Brigham Young University and its graduates will stand forever as a monument to the diligent, conscientious work of this devoted group over the past decades.

This week the studentbody, faculty and entire university family are truly honoring and paying homage to Professors Emeriti:

A Typical Crosssection . . .

Ike Appears Decisive Favorite of Students In BYU Opinion Poll

(Editor's note: This is the second in a series of articles reporting findings of a BYU campus survey of student opinion on the 1956 presidential election.)

STUDENTS at Brigham Young University "like Ike"—and in a great big way.

Their preferences expressed in a personal-interview survey on campus last week favored Eisenhower over Stevenson by a ratio of six to one. The poll was conducted by a Journalism department class in opinion measurement taught by Dr. Oliver R. Smith.

The responses in the poll were received from a sample representing all classes from freshman through graduate, and all sections of the country. The sample, however, was most heavily represented by students from the mountain and Pacific states, from which nine-tenths of the BYU studentbody comes.

THIRTY SEVEN per cent of those polled were over 21 and 67 per cent under 21.

The students were asked: "Assuming that you could vote (or will vote) in the coming election, which presidential candidate would you choose?" Their answers were:

Eisenhower	84%
Stevenson	14%
Undecided	2%

Answers from men students (who formed 58 per cent of the sample) differed less than one per cent from those of women on this question. There were, however, differences among opinions of students from various regions, but all regions favored Eisenhower overwhelmingly.

STUDENTS from the mid-western states favored the Republican nominee by a margin of 7 to 2, those from the Pacific states by a margin of 5 to 1, and those from the mountain states and other regions by margins of 6 to 1 or greater.

When asked to name the probable winner of the election, the students predicted Eisenhower by an even greater margin—13 to 1. The following question was asked:

"Regardless of how you, yourself would vote, which candidate do you think will be elected President in November?"

The results:

	Men	Wom.	Tot.
Eisenhower	92%	88%	91%
Stevenson	6%	4%	5%
Undecided	2%	8%	4%

On this question, as with the personal preference question, the proportion of the sample in the "undecided" category was extremely low in comparison with typical polls of adult voters only.

The heavy odds placed on an Eisenhower victory by the BYU students also exceeded by more than six times the prediction ratio of a nationwide survey of college students reported this week by the Associated Collegiate Press (Daily Universe Oct. 31). Students on campuses throughout the country picked Eisenhower as the winner in a 3 to 1 ratio.

The ACP poll results:

	Men	Wom.	Tot.
Eisenhower	68%	58%	65%
Stevenson	21%	28%	23%
Undecided	11%	14%	12%

It appears significant here that of the 14 per cent of the BYU students who personally favored Stevenson, more than one third believed Eisenhower would be the winner.

A POSSIBLE explanation of the BYU students' overwhelming nod to Eisenhower may be sought in the political affiliation of their parents. This may be a significant factor since nearly two-thirds of the students have no yet reached voting age. All those interviewed were asked: "What party do your parents usually support?"

The results showed:

Republican	50%
Democratic	35%

Independent or Don't Know

(In cases where a student reported his father and supported separate party, one-half unit was tallied to each party.)

These findings showed a 7 to 5 Republican margin, homes from which the student came.

With the 84 to 14 per cent margin for Ike reported by students, personal preference, however, it is apparent that or more of the student Democratic parents list Republican president a choice.

AN INTERESTING aspect of Eisenhower's popularity the students was the indication that many of them chose their preferred candidate of what seemed to be mis concerning his vice presidential running-mate Richard Nixon. All students polled 43 per cent felt Nixon would lose the ticket as compared to 1 per cent who felt he would win, and 33 per cent who his candidacy would not the ticket either way or on opinion on it.

On the other hand only one cent believed Kefauver would lose votes for the Democratic ticket, while 58 per cent he would gain votes for Stevenson.

(The third and final article in this series on BYU student opinions on the presidential election will appear Monday, Daily Universe.)

Assemblies Could Become Warnings

Fire hazards in the assembly hall at the Smith Fieldhouse during the Homecoming assemblies have been brought to the attention of the administration by Brigham Young University Fire Marshal E. Harris.

Books, briefcases, chairs, even baby carriages have been left in the aisles and stairs during assembly according to Harris. The objects create a real danger in case of fire, he said.

Harris and BYU vice president, Harvey L. Taylor, especially requested that students take care to avoid such hazards at assemblies.

Founders Day Festivities Recalled Parade, Tug-O-War Popularity

by JoAnn Long
Daily Universe Writer
"ANTICIPATION and excitement prevail as the Homecoming celebration nears. This day is to be the really big day of the year, and preparation for it has been in the making for many weeks. Committee chairmen check last minute details and everyone on campus seems to be able to find something to help with in the preparations.

Alumni wander the campus, reliving once more the fun and good times they once had here and hardly believing the changes that have been made. Long parades, fascinating programs, and parties are all a part of this day."

IT IS HARD to believe this is a description of activities of a typical Founders Day in the early 1900s, for activities sound so much like our own Homecoming program.

The 40th anniversary of Founder's Day proved to be a reception to the traditional. At sunrise on Oct. 1915, a salute of 40 guns ended the student body.

AT 8:30 a. m. they began trek to Maple Flat. Student faculty and alumni hiked over up the difficult mountain. There were few trails or thus making it doubly hard for everyone. The group gathered at the Block Y at 10 a. m., sang school song, and then on up to the flat.

At 1 p. m. they assembled at Maple Flat, and there the "O, Ye Mountains High" band accompanying student George H. Brimhaugh, James E. Talmage, Joseph Smith and Joseph B. Keen dressed the group of approximately 500.

IN THE AFTERNOON typical Founder's Day events were held. One event was the tug-of-war the millrace that was near the Provo Armory and west.

The tug-of-war was among the various classes. Provo High vs. BYU. The of course was to drench the opposite side. Often it was able by the men's app to as to which side was the Magnificent Challenge...

Laughs, Enjoyment Plentiful In BYU Comedy Production

by Richard Kramer
Daily Universe Drama Critic
LAUGHS RUN high in the current Brigham Young University production of "You Can't Take It With You."

Under the direction of Dr. Albert Mitchell "You Can't Take It With You" emerges as a very funny and enjoyable play.

This particular play is a magnificent challenge to aspiring Thespians to show their capability of characterization. Most of the large cast come through with superb characterizations.

BONNIDEAN Petty is exceptionally well cast as Penelope Sycamore. Her small and excellent mannerisms and gestures gives evidence of a great deal of concentration and study. Perhaps her only hindrance, if she looks toward professional work, is her uncanny resemblance to Spring Byington. She was excellent.

Miss Shirleen Worst as Essie is enchanting. Her ballet steps and movements throughout the play are hilarious.

SEVERAL of the male actors who portrayed older men were somewhat weak in character, but even this went unnoticed. Robert Wilkinson as Grandpa fell short of the great possibilities this role has to offer. His voice and diction were "too young" and his movements were perhaps unnatural. Gary Smith as Paul Sycamore and Wayne Ayres as Mr. De Pinna were also occasionally "too young."

Carl Pope as Tony Kirby and Carolyn Blair as Alice are pleasing as the love interest. Both are capably cast in their parts.

MINOR ROLES were also played with finesse. Making brief but impressive appearances are George Tanner as Boris Kolenkhov and Dorothy Whitaker as Olga. Joe Kirk as Donald and Iona Compton as Rheba also scored.

The first night's audience was large and overwhelmingly receptive to the production.

Scenery, lights, and costumes were all of high quality. They were again under the hand of Dr. George Tanner who designed the sets for last week's "The Snow Treasure."

Perhaps this play will be hindered by the Homecoming activities; which is too bad for such a good play.

16 WEST CENTER, PROVO

YU's Growth Traced om 29 Student Start

IGHAM Young University began to grow with the addition of the Training School and Gymnasium Building in 1902, and the Missionary and Preparatory Building (now BY High) in 1904.

First building housed on Temple Hill, purchased about 1907 for $1,000, was the Maeser Memorial Building in 1911.

About this same time a huge white "Y" was placed on the mountainside east of Provo, the Banyan was begun and graduate work was introduced.

Expansion continued on Temple Hill, which became known as "upper campus."

The Eyring Science Center was dedicated in 1950. In 1951 the George Albert Smith Fieldhouse, largest auditorium in the intermountain west, accommodating 11,000 persons, was completed at a cost of over $1,000,000.

DURING THE administration of Christen Jensen, (1949-1951) all members of the Quorum of Twelve of the Latter-day Saints Church became members of the university Board of Trustees.

President Ernest L. Wilkin-son began his administration in 1950. Under his guidance the school has experienced a 75 per cent increase in enrollment. The 1956 September enrollment exceeded 9,000 students.

BYU is now the largest church-related institution of higher education in the United States, and the largest university in Utah.

Physical facilities added to the campus since 1950 include the Herald R. Clark Student Service Center, Heritage Halls, the Engineering Building, Motion Picture Building, David O. McKay Building, Botanical Laboratory and Student Health Center.

Construction was begun last year on the Joseph F. Smith Family Living Center. It should be ready for occupancy winter quarter of this year.

Maeser served as principal of the Brigham Young Academy from April 1876 to January 1892.

ST HOME of the academy was the old Lewis Building on corner of 3rd West and Center streets. It consisted of one room and a stage. First enrollment numbered 29 students.

In 1882, additional rooms were added to the building. The structure was destroyed by fire in January, 1884.

In the early days, rather than the academy be closed because of financial difficulties, Maeser and his staff displayed their loyalty by teaching anything they could get. Included agricultural products which were accepted from students instead of cash tuition.

SCHOOL moved in 1892 to what is now known as the Union Building, the first structure built especially for the city.

In 1896, under the direction of President Wilford Woodruff, the LDS Church assumed the responsibility of the institution maintaining Brigham Young University.

The name of the school was later changed to Brigham Young University in 1903.

Following presidents were: H. Brimhall, Franklin B. Davis, Howard S. McDonald, Christen Jensen and Ernest L. Jensen.

Prof. Sessions

HONORED at the 1956 Homecoming celebration are 25 emeriti professors who have worked long years for Brigham Young University.

JAMES L. BARKER first became professor of Modern Language at Brigham Young Academy in 1907. During his career as an educator and author he has traveled to Europe several times doing research and study in modern languages.

He became Professor Emeritus of Brigham Young University in 1955.

WILLIAM H. BOYLE now 82 years old, has taught almost 50 years at BYU.

Professor Boyle attended Brigham Young Academy in 1891, and has been assistant professor of education, professor of education, and student coordinator at BYU.

An active man in the community and noted for his public speaking, Professor Boyle now lives with his wife in Provo.

ELLA LARSEN BROWN, now residing in Salt Lake City, was born in Pleasant Grove, in 1871.

She attended Brigham Young Academy when it was located in the old ZCMI warehouse at 3rd South and University Ave. After completing her studies at the BYA, Professor Brown went to Chicago to attend the Cook County Normal School where she received a diploma in education.

GUSTAV BUGGERT, who lives in Provo, was an instructor of music at BYU from 1927 to 1929.

Professor Buggert became famous for a trip to Nazi Germany in 1935. Upon his return to the United States Professor Buggert related that Adolph Hitler had banned all phonograph recordings or canned music as it was called in those day. This, according to Professor Buggert, was done in order to provide more jobs for musicians.

ELSIE CHAMBERLAIN CARROLL is a famous woman poet and short story writer, as well as a BYU emeritus.

She was born in southern Utah and received her early education there. Professor Carroll received both her B.A. and M.A. degrees from BYU.

Professor Carroll has been instructor of English and associate professor of English at BYU and the dean of girls at Provo High School.

BENJAMIN F. CUMMINGS, head of the Modern Languages Department was noted for his humorous and enthusiastic teaching approach.

Prof. Cummings taught French classes on campus until he was made an emeritus professor in the early 1950's. He is now living in Salt Lake City studying and writing.

ENGLISH-born Norman Dunn joined the BYU campus family in 1947 as a teacher of English and Book of Mormon.

Dunn was educated in the Kiddemister School of Science and Art and in the Church of England College. He also won a King's scholarship to Birmingham University.

FLORA D. FISHER worked in the education department of BYU over a period of 23 years. During this time Prof. Fisher was an instructor in elementary education and later was supervisor of teaching in the training school. She held this post from 1933 to 1939.

In 1956 Prof. Fisher was made an emeritus professor.

MAY C. HAMMOND, born in 1882 was a member of the faculty working in the education department of BYU.

After coming to the university as an instructor in elementary education, Prof. Hammond advanced to assistant professor of elementary education.

Prof. Hammond was made an emeritus professor in 1952.

WILLIAM F. HANSEN can boast of many original musical compositions including several operas that were produced by BYU.

After 1950 Hansen taught piano privately until 1954 when he was made an emeritus professor.

J. WYLEY SESSIONS was a professor of religion and director of religious activities on campus from 1939 until 1948.

After receiving the title of emeritus professor in 1948, Prof. Sessions engaged in building houses in Provo and continued business interests in Salt Lake City and Los Angeles, Calif.

JOSEPH SUDWEEKS, born in 1882, was another emeritus member of the Education Department faculty.

Prof. Sudweeks joined BYU

as associate professor of educational administration in 1925. He held this position until 1951.

Prof. Sudweeks was made an emeritus professor in 1951.

JOHN E. HAYES, BYU registrar from 1904 to 1953, knows and remembers a multitude of students due to his job.

Hayes was born in Pleasant Grove in 1880 and lived his entire life in Utah working for Brigham Young Academy and for BYU.

Four of Hayes' children graduated from BYU as did their father. Hayes has worked with the historical and alumni records of the campus since becoming a professor emeritus in 1954.

Organizer of the College of Commerce at BYU, HARRISON V. HOYT served the university from 1931 until 1951.

Memories Theme Brings Back Past

by Barbara Miller
Daily Universe Feature Editor

IN THE FALL of the year almost every college in the United States holds a happy, noisy celebration called Homecoming.

It consists of many different things; dances, assemblies, parades, bonfires, football games, plays and other productions designed to bring out the spirit in the students and make the returning alumni feel that they are once again young, gay and in college.

AFTER PARTICIPATING in and watching the exciting happenings, everyone who is connected with the collegiate way of life feels once again a thrill that comes when the home team wins an important game or when the president passes out the coveted diploma. It is a feeling that makes all persons appreciate their companions and their lives.

AT BRIGHAM YOUNG UNIVERSITY, Homecoming brings back alumni from all parts of the U. S. They come to cheer at the football game, gasp at the beauty of the queen and her court, and to renew old acquaintances with students and faculty.

In order to give this celebration to the BYU students and alumni a certain group of hardworking people have done far more than their share of hard labor. They worked long and late to schedule events, make up publicity and coordinate details.

ALL THAT GLITTER—1951 Homecoming Queen, Cherie Marcil's smile gleams almost as brightly as the crown that President Ernest L. Wilkinson places on her head. The queens crown is used every year to signify the honor of the position of Homecoming Queen.

Those Were the Days ...

Previous Homecoming Themes, Activities Told

by Nadine Hall
Daily Universe Society Writer
HOMECOMING celebrations from 1800 to 1956 have shown different trends, new ideas and fun-filled activities.

In 1921 Homecoming was called Founders' Day and Brigham Young University played Springville. After the game the high school boys challenged the college men to a tug of war contest.

Next year, 1922, saw BYU pitted against Colorado School of Mines. Students gathered after the game for a barbecue.

UPPER division scholars paraded the streets in blue caps with white tassels, and lower division classes followed behind in white caps with blue tassels in 1923.

Main feature of Homecoming 1924 was the ground-breaking ceremony for the Grant Library. Students wore blue and white clothes.

BYU versus Utah was the Homecoming game in 1935. A Beat Utah assembly at College Hall and pep rally in the Paramount Theater livened up the event. Halftime featured the finish of the annual cross country run.

A TORCHLIGHT snake dance ending in a wild powwow was the highlight of 1936 Homecoming. Students with activity cards were admitted free to a Shirley Temple movie.

"Coming Home" was theme of the 1940 event. Freshmen competed against the sophomores in a tug-of-war. Float entries could not exceed $7.50.

"BBB-Brigham Buffalo Boulder" was the assembly in 1941 directed by Rolfe Peterson. The pep rally bonfire was officially lighted by the Homecoming queen before the studentbody snake danced to KOVO where they staged a program of cheers. Varsity football players autographed a football and gave it to the coed whose name was drawn at the dance.

"FAMILIAR Pathways" led the celebration in 1948. An original song "Homecoming" written by a student was introduced at the assembly.

Torchlight parade with participants wearing pajama tops over their clothes provided fun in 1949. Prizes were given for the loudest pajamas. Intercollegiate Knights won first place float for best typifying "BYU-topia."

In 1950 "Diamond Diary" themed the festivities. Social units presented original skits at a pep rally where Tausigs won honors for their hillbilly act.

STYLISH MISSES—The 1906 Brigham Young University Kindergarten Club members provide a good example of fashion trends of that time. Tight fitting floor length skirts and long sleeved high neck blouses were tops on the fashion list of every coed.

Style Trends Lend Themselves To 'Remember When' Theme

by Margaret Hunter
Daily Universe Society Writer
New high fashion lends itself wonderfully to the theme, "Remember When."

Cecil Beaton has brought the year 1912 to the present by his costuming of the play, "My Fair Lady."

Nostalgia, romance, and femininity are the passwords of this Fair Lady Look. Elegance dominates the strictly severe of last year.

Although the basic line of the costume is still narrow, the new influence has brought about a noticeable change. Femininity is shown in the use of small soft pleats, drapes, trains, and a general softness of the whole costume.

High waists with straight but unclinging skirts and high belted unfitted suits are most fashionable.

A return of the silk shirt, satin, cummerbund, and wide taffeta skirt, and the Gibson Girl look shows the great influence of the early part of the century. Even the car coat of early driving days has seen a great revival.

Elegance of fabric is also a part of the 1912 look. Much satin, velvet, silk, taffeta, and brocades are used to emphasize this dressy fashion.

Silk roses, pearls, touches of fur, and silk plushy scarves are all definite symbols of this new influence.

Soft lines around the face also emphasize this feeling. The pouf, a circle of silk taffeta, peau de soie, or silk organza, crushed in the neckline is another definite symbol.

Mink and ermine collars, large jeweled pins and clips, and tucked and ruffled gilets again are important.

Renoir has also contributed to the new Fair Lady. A flushed rosy look in make-up and soft up-swept hair arrangements have been taken directly from his paintings.

All in all, being a Fair Lady means feminine elegance in every detail, and therefore is best for those dressier, romantic occasions.

Baked Alaska ...

Different Menu Ideas Given For After-Festivities Party

by Joan Blodgett
Daily Universe Society Writer

HOMEcoming weekend is a time for entertaining. Get the girls together after Fieldhouse games, the football game or the pep assembly.

PIZZA PIE is always a favorite, especially if served with a salad and glasses of cold milk. An inexpensive pizza mix can be purchased. Do-it-yourselfers may prefer their own.

For individuality cover pizza with either Provolone cheese, slices of sausage, pepperoni, anchovy fillets or small cubes of chicken, veal or ham.

Another meal that is sure to please your gang is one featuring a fruit plate salad and hot rolls filled with ham.

THE SALAD PLATE is a combination of your choice. Some suggestions include: oranges, grapefruit, pears, peaches, cantaloupe, watermelon, apples, grapes, pineapple, pomegranates and bananas.

Most of the fruit may be cut, dipped in a water and sugar solution and arranged on a plate before the guests arrive. Bananas and a scoop of sherbet may be added directly before serving.

HOT ROLLS and ham are made from any standard yeast roll recipe. Roll the dough to quarter inch thickness and cover with sliced ham or cubed canned ham, roll between hands and board forming layers, slice and bake.

Fruit punch provides the finishing touch for this meal.

SURPRISE your crowd with a dessert of beauty and mystery. The big moment is serving a Baked Alaska. Bake an egg yolk sponge cake, cut out middle leaving sides and bottom of cake.

Shortly before serving make meringue by beating 6 large egg whites with ½ teaspoon cream of tartar until stiff. Beat in gradually ½ cup sugar. Continue beating until meringue is stiff and glossy.

Next, place cooled sponge cake on several thicknesses of wax paper on a cookie sheet. Pile two quarts ice cream into hollow of cake. Completely cover ice cream and sides of cake with meringue. Place in hot over 500 degrees for three minutes. Serve immediately.

Fashions Show Little Change Until Flappers

by Deanna Barnum
Daily Universe Society Editor

REMEMBER when women wore long skirts? Floor length dresses didn't go out of style until the early 1920's. From medieval times until 1920 women wore long dresses and skirts.

Styles in the 18th and 19th century were characterized by ruffles, lace, bustles and frills. A major fashion change came in 1890 when frills were only used on Sunday best dresses. Everyday wear was a long, plain tight fitting skirt or dress.

IN 1912 styles featured floor-length sheath dresses and skirts with high waist lines. BY 1918 the old long skirt and floor-length dress idea was rapidly changing, and 1920 ushered in the short skirts and the flapper era.

In the late '20's few skirts were worn. Dresses were about the length of present clothes, but the long straight waist lines were coming into popularity. Women of this period wore big furs around their necks.

A FASHION expert in 1926 predicted that in thirty years women would be wearing pants. The question was, would they continue to wear skirts or would pants be the accepted thing.

Long waist lines went out of style as fast as they appeared on the fashion scene, and during the 1930's women's clothes were about the same style as they are today.

In 1940 came the era of skirts above the knees, and from this evolved our present day fashions.

What will clothes be like in the future? What will our grandchildren think of the styles we wear today? Only time will tell.

'Heart on Arm' Fad Enjoys Popularity

NEW YORK — (INS) — Wearing your heart on your sleeve is more than a phrase this year; it's also a fashion.

"Heart" bracelets—link bracelets dripping in hearts of all kinds—are enjoying a tremendous fad, says antique jewelry expert Janet Brown.

Mrs. Brown, a well-known dealer in antique baubles, says everyday looks like Valentine's Day this season at the jewelry counter.

She thinks the explanation is that women have discovered you can buy real jewelry cheap.

"Emerald, ruby and pearl hearts are favorites," Mrs. Brown says. "Some women like them all gold. Some like enamel."

SHORTER CLOTHES FOR 1920's—This picture of a student group was taken shortly after 1920. Women's dress and coat length changed rapidly from floor-length to knee-length. Coats of this era were straight, loose-fitting and plain.

Students Can Charm Modern Homes With Early American Accessories

NEW YORK — (INS) — You can charm your guests with a touch of early Americana, especially if it's a candle box letterholder that you've made yourself.

The letter holder, which comes complete in a do-it-yourself kit, is an authentic reproduction of one found in an old home in Lexington, Mass.

In colonial days, the holder was placed outside the front door, complete with burning candles shedding a welcoming light for the mail bearer.

Today, it can be similarly used, minus the candle, but with a spray of satin-green ivy springing from a small shelf at the bottom of the holder.

The firm manufacturing colonial antique kits also has packaged such charming antiques as a five-board foot stool, a three-drawer wall shelf, a seven-drawer spice box and a blacksmith's box (magazine rack).

Cats Gunning for Win Over Lobos In Homecoming Feature Saturday

by Jerry Cunningham
BRIGHAM Young University will shoot the works' against New Mexico Saturday.

BYU is starving for a win. New Mexico is tough, but they can be beaten. And, it's homecoming in Cougarville. So "Let's lick those Lobos!" is the Cat war-cry right now.

Reports out of Albuquerque indicate that New Mexico is a methodical ground-attack team. In past games the Lobos have driven back the opposition with tank-like tactics.

THIS WILL be quite a contrast to the Cougars' aerial circus, which may make Utah University's "smorgasbord" look like bread and water.

There's hidden power in New Mexico. The Wolfpack gave league-leading Wyoming its toughest game of the year. Denver narrowly squeaked by them last week, 20-14.

BUT THE biggest feather in the Lobos' hat is their 27-20 upset of powerful Utah State, who breezed past the Cougars 33-7. So, on paper, New Mexico looms an easy two-touchdown favorite.

But Coach Hal Kopp will have his Cougars up for this one. Looking behind the scores, the Cats have improved substantially with each game.

"THE MORE games we play, the more yardage we rack up. And one of these times we're going to 'rack up' some football team, too," asserted the BYU mentor.

Statistics substantiate the coach's confidence in his team. Against Wichita in the first game of the season, BYU had a very anemic ground attack—minus six yards.

IN THEIR last outing against Utah State, a much stronger team than Wichita, the Cougars totaled 308 yards.

Comparative scores, while never conclusive, can be indicative. Denver, using a wide-open, diversified attack, whipped the Wolfpack by a single touchdown.

So Coach Kopp indicated that he will throw everything but the kitchen sink against the Lobos Saturday.

BYU THREW the ball 38 times against Utah State last week, and that may be just a teaser of things to come, according to Kopp. With the Aggies' defense so air-conscious that their secondary approached each new Cougar play looking into the air, the Cats were able to score on the ground.

New Mexico runs from a conservative split-T formation, with the halfbacks instead of the quarterback passing, and then only infrequently.

LIKE BYU, New Mexico has a new coach in Dick Clausen, who laments having lost eight lettermen, but he has 17 veterans returning.

Reports from Albuquerque indicate that the Lobos lack depth. But so do the Cougars, although each team is stronger in this department; than they were at the first of the season.

ANOTHER possible deficit on the New Mexico ledger is pass defense, which has been neither particularly good nor bad to date.

The Wolfpack boasts a big, tough line, averaging upwards of 210 pounds. Their backfield is light and fast.

New Mexico boasts one of the best guard combinations in the circuit in Jerry Nesbitt and Jamie Koch, both of whom are strong all-conference candidates. Nesbitt was named "lineman of the game" against Denver Saturday.

THE COUGARS were plastered last year by essentially the same New Mexico team, 21-6. Both clubs appear stronger this year, even though BYU is in the cellar and New Mexico in sixth with one win and two losses.

Kopp announced early Thursday that the Cougars are in good physical condition with only guard Bill Matthews and halfback Weldon Jackson out of action. New Mexico is intact for Saturday's tilt.

THE PROBABLE starting BYU lineup is as follows: Ends, Tom Clark 175, and Ed Hunt 190; tackles, Dave Hanks 215, and Dick Ralph 225; guards, Jay Weenig 210, and Glen Taylor 190; center, Lynn Reading 190.

In the backfield BYU will have Carroll Johnson at quarterback, Johnny Wood at right halfback, Burt Bullock, left halfback and Ron Jacobsen, fullback.

NEW MEXICO'S probable starting lineup: ends, John Barefoot 188, and Phil Harris 198; tackles, Glen Hanks 220, and Jack Hardin 210; guards, Wayne Gares 215, and Jerry Nesbitt, 187; and center, Larry Davis 195.

In the backfield, the Lobos will have Jerry Lott at quarterback, Porky Leyva and Lynn White at halfbacks, and Phil Spear, fullback.

Cat Cinder Squad Impresses Europe On Summer Trip

SUCCESSFUL during a six-week tour of Europe, members of Brigham Young University's track and field team returned home late in August.

Leaving a string of victories and impressive performances behind them, the 15-man contingent more than measured up to expectations in meeting some of the top teams in Europe, according to track coach Clarence Robison.

The Cougars competed in Ireland, England, Germany, Finland, and France.

COACH Robison and trainer Rod Kimball accompanied the following members of the track squad on the trip: Harry Anderson and Dick Heywood (sprints), Jim Crittenden and Arlyn Finlinson (440), Oscar Anderson (880 and mile), Sherold James (mile and two-mile), Bok Suk Shim (mile and two-mile), Weldon Jackson (broad jump), Ralph Bonham (high jump), Marv Roberson (shot put), Lewis Chatterly (pole vault), Hal Werner and Charles Higgins (javelin), and Willard Hirschi (hurdles).

COACH Robison also welcomed a talented array of former high school stars to BYU this year. These men should go far in bolstering the Cat squad for next year.

There are also several men returning from last year's varsity.

Cats Whipped by Rugged Foes; Single Tie Best Season Effort

COUGAR football got off against some rugged competition featuring three conference champions in the opening games this year.

Wichita, Missouri Valley conference champs, offered the Cats stiff opposition in the opening tussle at Wichita. The Cougars could not generate a sustained drive but their defense was solid and adaptable. The final score was 13-0.

FRESNO State's Bulldogs ruined the Cats' first home stand by a 26-13 count. The heavier Bulldogs outclassed the Brigham, but Cougar faithful were pleased to see the first sparks of a BYU offensive.

The Cougars played their best game to date holding defending Skyline titlists, Colorado A&M to a scoreless tie. The Cougars outplayed the Aggies and threatened several times but were unable to push one over.

UTAH'S highly favored Redskins ran roughshod over a fighting Cougar crew, 41-6.

BYU's last-quarter heroics were not enough to stave off defeat at the hands of Montana's Grizzlies. The Silvertips took advantage of Cat fumbles for a 21-14 win.

Last weekend Jack Hill and company led Utah State's powerful conference contenders to a storm-racked 33-7 victory. In this battle, BYU's Carroll Johnson completed 14 out of 30 passes for a conference offensive record for one man. He gained 223 yards in the aerial barrage.

Olympics Still Planned

MELBOURNE — (INS) — A top Australian official said today the 1956 Olympic Games will be held as scheduled despite the critical Mid-East situation.

Lieut. Gen. Sir William Bridgeford, chief executive officer of the organizing committee, said "the games will go on."

Pokes, Utags Top Skyline Standings

Wyoming University's potent Cowboys continue to lead the Skyline Conference standings. The Pokes have raced through seven games without a defeat and remain one of a few major undefeated teams in the nation.

Utah State makes their bid this weekend to unseat the Cowboys when they host the rough Wyoming team. The Aggies have lost only one game this year.

Cougar Football Resurrection Begun By New Coaching Staff

With football deep in a quagmire of defeat, BYU reached to the eastern seaboard for this year's head coach, Harold Kopp. Along with acquiring a new head man there resulted a complete upheaval of personnel in the grid coaching staff.

Coach Kopp brought with him an enviable record of 25 wins, 5 losses and two ties over a four year span at Rhode Island University.

Coach Kopp's Rams were undefeated last season, which resulted in Kopp's being named New England Coach of the Year.

Tally Stevens, steeped in a winning tradition at the University of Utah as a player and East High School as a coach, was named as Coach Kopp's chief lieutenant and end coach.

Stevens' coaching record at East High encompassed three state championships and an overall record of 33-3-1.

Stevens is a University of Utah graduate, Air Force veteran and a native of Evanston, Wyo.

Owen Dixon and Allan Davis are two BYU graduates or Coach Kopp's staff this year. Dixon is line coach, and Davis is coaching the backs.

Max Tolbert, another BYU grad is tutoring this year's powerful freshman squad.

Tolbert, a native of Fayetteville, Pa., established an enviable coaching record at Murray High School before joining the BYU staff last year.

Conduct Code For Football Listed In 1921

WAY BACK in 1921 the Y News, predecessor of the Daily Universe, ran the following "Ten Commandments for Football Men" at the beginning of the football season.

1. Love thine enemy as thyself, but love thyself a mighty blooming little.

2. Thou shalt not kill, but thou mayest break as many ribs as convenient.

3. Do not unto others as you would have others do unto you, but do up the others before they get a chance to do you.

4. When a man smites thee on thy left cheek, turn upon him thy right hand and send for an ambulance.

5. When a fellow gets the pigskin, leave him not to enjoy his victory; but down him and pound him for his trouble.

6. Honesty is the best policy, but never hesitate to swipe the ball when you get the chance.

7. Thou shalt not covet thy opponent's weight, nor his hair, nor his nose guard, but thou shalt covet his pigskin with all thy might, mind and strength.

8. When thou hast the ball, stray not into by and forbidden paths, but take a straight and narrow course for the goal; and if anyone opposes thy progress, thou shalt give him a straight arm, hard enough to send 13 molar on a voyage down his alimentary canal.

9. Let not thy line be made of lumber wagons, for such are easily cut through.

10. Let thy best men be called halfbacks, and thy worst men be called drawbacks.

This was Brigham Young University's first year of college football competition, and on the record set by the 24-man squad of 4 wins and 2 losses, the school decided to enter the Rocky Mountain football conference in 1922.

That's Rich

by Rich Hall

IT PROMISES to be an interesting weekend of football for Brigham Young University supporters.

The varsity meets the University of New Mexico in annual Homecoming tilt at 1:30 in the Cougar stadium.

The freshmen travel south to match pigskin skill with defeated Dixie Junior College at St. George.

BOTH GAMES promise much in the way of football for Cougar fans. The possibility of the varsity breaking into the win column is very present Saturday, and the question of whether or not the frosh can continue their winning ways against Dixie is foremost in the minds of many Cat followers.

In the freshman clash Coach Max Tolbert has promised to turn his offensive powers loose against the Jaycees who are defeated in seven straight starts.

AGAINST A helpless Utah State squad last week the Kittens looked very impressive while running up a terrific pass-heavy hard football playing at Logan.

Coach Tolbert finds himself in a rare position for a football coach. Due to having so much talent on hand he is a little hard pressed to figure out a definite starting line-up that he seems to be enjoying, however.

THERE IS A GOOD POSSIBILITY that the Kittens will be taking to the air more against Dixie than they did against Aggies. A passing attack would be a strong help to an already powerful ground game, and would really keep a defense honest.

The frosh game will be broadcast over KOVO at 3 p.m. Friday afternoon.

THE VARSITY will be entering their game as a one-touchdown underdog against the Lobos. However, this is a week that the Cats just might be on the win trail.

New Mexico will not be easy. They have the distinction of being the only team in the Skyline this season to knock out Utah State. Denver managed to post a bare six point victory over the Lobos last weekend after New Mexico came alive in the second half of play.

BUT THE COUGARS have been a ball team capable of knocking off anybody once they came alive. Bad breaks held them back against Utah State and Montana. Last week allowed Utah to run away from them in the fourth quarter of that contest after the Cats had held the Redskins 20-3 in the first three quarters.

The Cougars were trying too hard in the Colorado A game and lost several scoring opportunities through over-zealousness.

IN EVERY GAME this season they have had their moments of looking good. Last weekend they showed their best offensive effort to date, unleashing a passing attack that had BYU quarterbacks heaving the pigskin all over the place.

Look for a wide open game this Saturday, with a strong possibility of the Cougars throwing themselves into the win column.

BYU's Intramural Are Biggest Ever

Brigham Young University is providing athletes with its largest and most comprehensive intramural program in the history of the school, according to Milton F. Hartvigsen, dean of the College of Recreation, Physical Education and Health.

To provide some five-thousand male students with the chance to participate in organized athletics has been the goal of William H. Hafen, who developed the year's program.

Fall activities alone will involve more than a thousand participants in a variety of activities—golf, flag football, tennis, badminton, horseshoes, table tennis, handball, archery, country run and basketball.

During the winter student body will be able to choose from among paddleball, bowling, gymnastics, boxing, table tennis, doubles, handball, doubles fencing.

The spring activities will include volleyball, softball, tennis singles, horseshoes, badminton doubles, table tennis, golf, paddleball, doubles, swimming, track and field.

Cougar Cagers Face Rugged Game Schedule

Jerry Cunningham

"WE'RE FACING one of the toughest schedules in the history of the school, and I don't think you can name me any college in the country with a much stiffer one," Head Basketball Coach Stan Watts said Wednesday.

An initial turnout of 50 basketball aspirants has been chopped to 25 after three weeks of stiff cage drill, Watts announced. He has worked overtime to get the Cougars ready for their coming schedule.

HAVING lost, via graduation, such stalwarts as Herschel "Bones" Pedersen, Terry Tebbis, Ed Pinegar, Dave Lewis, Willard Hirschi and Blaine Anderson, Watts lamented, "We're in a major rebuilding program this year."

But as usual, BYU is rich in basketball talent with only inexperience being a possible drawback. "We'll have a good team, but maybe not a champion," said Watts.

THE COUGARS seem to have a wealth of talent at forward and guard.

Among others, John Benson, 6-4, Lynn Rowe, 6-4, and Hal Jensen, 6-3, will vie for the forward slots while Harry Anderson, Paul Kitchen and Tom Steinke are strong candidates for the guard line.

Coach Watts indicated that he is hard-pressed for a center after the loss of Pedersen.

HE HAS Jack Anderson, 6-6, Keith Pedersen, 6-5, John Guston, 6-4, Russell Jones, 6-6, Bob Ricks, 6-5 and Roy Thacker, 6-4, to choose from.

BYU will face some of the cream of the nation's basketball powers.

The Cougars open against Oregon State Nov. 30 in Provo and host University of Washington the following night. Both teams are intact from last year and are strong contenders for the tough Pacific Coast Conference.

BOWLING Green, a perennial basketball power in the East, comes to Provo Dec. 21 and 22.

On the road, the Cougars' pre-season program includes Iowa State, strong contender in the Big Seven; Michigan State; UCLA twice, and finally competition in the Holiday Festival Tournament in New York's Madison Square Garden.

THE INVITATIONAL teams in the Garden Tournament are BYU, Notre Dame and Ohio State who will compete with New York University, St. Johns, Temple, Fordham, Niagara, Manhattan and Villanova.

Watts expects BYU's toughest competition in the Skyline Conference to come from Wyoming and Denver. He also suggested that Montana will be tougher than anyone expects.

CONFERENCE play for the Cougars will begin Jan. 4 in Provo when Montana University comes to town.

The other home games include Utah State, Jan. 25; St. Mary's, Jan. 26; Utah, Feb. 9; Colorado A&M, Feb. 15; Wyoming, Feb. 16; New Mexico, March 1, and Denver, March 2.

Cat Homecoming Tilts Recorded Over Years

by Deanna Barnum

SATURDAY'S football game will be the first Brigham Young University homecoming encounter with the University of New Mexico and the first one coached by Harold Kopp.

The first homecoming game BYU played was against the University of Utah in 1921. The Redskins were victorious by a score of 14-0. Some veterans of the game were Ivin Young, Emmet Hays, Vick Hatch, Truman Partridge and Glenn Simmons.

ALTHOUGH by 1924, football was becoming a serious sport for BYU, Utah in the homecoming game trounced the Cougars 35-0. Ariel Ballif, Wesley Lloyd, Fred Dixon and Don Corbett were key men for BYU.

In 1925 BYU topped Colorado College 7-6 behind Eddie Kimball, Dick Thorn, Fred Dixon, Don Corbett, Reed Swensen, Wesley Lloyd and Don Lloyd.

KEN SAFFE, Charlie Roberts, Jack Stringham, Jack Christensen, Merrill Waters and Drew Leonard led BYU over Montana State 19-0 in 1937.

In 1940 BYU played Denver University; the Cougars lost by a score of 9-0. Stars were Longhurst, Murr, Skousen, Chamberlain, George Jackson and Roland Jensen.

From 1940 to 1946 there was no football at BYU.

IN 1946, the year after the war, BYU defeated University of Colorado 10-7. Reed Nilsen, Thayne Stone, Scott Deeds, Marcel Chatterton, Larry Reed and Mike Mills were the leaders.

The third homecoming game played with USAC in 1947, was won by the Cougars. Score was 27-12. Glenn Oliverson, Mike Mills, Lyle Koller and Gayle Holt were the stars.

THE COUGARS defeated Montana 26-20 in 1947. In this game Dave Chadwick, Kimball Merrill and Scotty Deeds were outstanding.

In 1949 Utah State walked over BYU 22-3. Rex Berry, Jay Hamblin, Lyle Koller, Bob Karpowicz, Merrill Hardy and Reed Stoworthy were the big guns.

University of Wyoming clobbered BYU 48-0 in 1950. Darrel Doney, Max Tolbert, Rex Berry, Bob Whitaker and Don Benson starred for the Cats.

COMBINING the talents of Ray Oliverson, Bob Karpowicz and a hard-charging Cougar line, BYU's Cougars clawed the Colorado A&M Rams into a 21-9 submission in the 1951 homecoming game.

The Cougars slipped by Denver Pioneers in 1952 by a slim lead of 14-12. Henry West, Udell Westover, Reed Stoworthy and Jae Ballif were the sparks.

RAMS OF Colorado A&M defeated the Cougars in the 1953 tilt by a 34-12 score. Outstanding BYU players were Marion Probert, Lavon Satterfield and Don James.

In the 1954 event, Coach Chick Atkinson's Cougars, with sophomores doing most of the work, outtrushed, outpassed and outplayed Montana Grizzlies. The final score was 19-7. Dave Kimball, Billy Meadows, Phil Oyler, Don James, Ken Gomm, Gary LaComb and Willard Stoworthy were the big guns.

BYU met USAC for the 1955 homecoming event. The Aggies were victorious 47-21. Leading Cougar gridders were Tom Verbanatz, Don Dixon, Gary LaComb, Scott Farmer, Ed Hunt and Raynor Pearce.

Cowboys, Aggies Tangle for Title

Wyoming and Utah State collide head-on in what promises to be the Skyline Conference "Game of the Week" Saturday at Logan.

Wyoming is given a slight edge by most prognosticators, but the game could definitely go either way. The two teams are nearly deadlocked in almost every conference statistical standing.

Utah State is the only team left on the Cowboys' schedule that could conceivably halt Wyoming's drive for the league crown.

Aside from the Brigham Young University-New Mexico tilt the rest of the Skyline ball clubs are playing non-conference opponents this weekend. Utah meets Rice, Denver travels to the coast to play San Jose State, Montana tangles with Montana State, and Colorado A&M takes on Xavier.

FROM THE SPORTS DESK

by Mark Murphy

HOMECOMING will always be a bright day on the collegiate calendar. Its pageantry, big game and dance all create an atmosphere which will cause many present-day undergraduates to say "remember when" in the future.

Along with homecoming come the successful, worldly, self-sufficient alumni. These older and wiser ones take great pride in their alma mater, and are equally as proud of their particular athletic successes of ten and 20 years ago. In fact many an unwary undergraduate will be drawn into heated discussions regarding the way football, etc., is played today as compared to years ago.

THE SHARP ALUM will throw such names as Red Grange, Bronco Nagurski, Jim Thorpe, Babe Ruth and others at you in firm support of their superiority to present athletes. In fact they will have you believe that athletics in general are regressing rather than progressing.

There is a comeback . . .

THE "GALLOPING GHOST" himself, Red Grange, is a football authority today, every weekend covering the best game college football has to offer. According to Red, "It's like being an old-time general practitioner watching an involved surgical operation on closed TV."

Bronco Nagurski, feared line cruncher of the past from Minnesota and the professional ranks is even more vehement in refuting claims against today's grid game.

HE SAYS "any blank-blank knows football players of today are better than they were in my time. You have to be twice as smart today to remember at least 30 assignments that branch into 300 variations. Some of the old-time boys, if they had the advantage of modern methods and scientific coaching from grade school on up, MIGHT make the grade today. In the old days a team might have a half dozen crack players—but today most grid teams have about 30 capable players."

A MILE is still 5,280 feet, a foot is still 12 inches, however, our recent Olympic trials reveal that modern day trackmen are greater than their dads and grandpas thought possible.

IN BASEBALL, past stars or self-named experts will point to the "lively ball" of today as contributing to improbable records. If the ball is of the rabbit variety, then why haven't such musclemen as 6'4", 235 lb. Ted Kluszewski of Cincinnati eclipsed Babe Ruth's record of 60 home runs.

The answer is simple. Players are not hitting MORE homers — MORE players are hitting homers.

There's almost no comparison in basketball. Many uninformed ones attribute this to rules changes. However, most coaches will agree that players of today are far advanced in ability and size. On our courts today we see players who are equally adept at potting baskets with either right or left hand, and with a variety of shots.

Now let's not give the poor alum too bad a time when he plays up the past, but we do know now that the sports world is a wonderful and continually improving one.

Famed Berlin Philharmonic Group To Give Provo Concert Thursday

BERLIN Philharmonic Orchestra, which has already started its second American tour, will be at the BYU Fieldhouse Thursday.

Under the direction of Herbert von Karajan, the orchestra began the tour Oct. 7 in Washington, D. C. This return tour, by popular demand, is the first transcontinental trip of the famous group. On this tour the orchestra is making 34 engagements in 44 days.

THE WASHINGTON News wrote of the opening concert: "The shouting ovation came at the end of a tremendously moving performance of Beethoven's 'Eroica.' Herbert Karajan fused new life into the work. All illuminating details were fully revealed."

The New Haven Evening Register: "A capacity audience covered that no orchestra play German music better than a German orchestra. In fact, the orchestra plays any music better than the Berlin Philharmonic Orchestra."

THE NEW YORK World Telegram and Sun: "There was again much to marvel at in the playing of this celebrated orchestra—its solid strength, its hesiveness, its amazing sun-polish. This is an ensemble of a third dimension of tradition behind it. Mr. von Karajan's astute and suave pace-setting showed once more that the orchestra knows how to exploit an orchestra's stylistic legacy to full. He is quite the virtuoso of the podium."

PRICES in the East and West coast cities range to $10, whereas the BYU Fieldhouse seats are being sold at $2 to $3.50. The Berlin Philharmonic is the largest and most expensive orchestra ever to appear in Utah. Provo is the smallest city in its itinerary.

Professor Herald R. Clapp, BYU lyceum chairman, said the concert is the first in the Schools and music groups far away as Monroe and Durango and Colorado, have ordered blocks of tickets.

Bookstore Hours Change Saturday

Homecoming Day Saturday will find new hours in effect at the Student Service Center bookstore that day only, according to Neil McKnight, manager. Bookstore will be open from 8:30 to 9:30 a.m. and from 10:00 to 11:00 a.m. and from 1:00 to 2:00 p.m.

McKnight also announces the textbook department will be turning to publishers books that are left over from fall quarter on Nov. 15.
